

yelster digital gmbh is part of the French Solocal group who is the leading digital marketing company in France.

More than a hundred thousand professionals, from the plumber or the bakery next door up to international big companies rely on our expertise. We help our clients to grow their business by boosting their online presence and visibility.

We are currently focusing on the development of our core self-service platform (Solocal Manager), where our B2B clients can manage all the services we provide to them from a single point of access . They are not only able to manage their online reputation and interactions with their own customers but also their presence on social media, directories and other digital publishing channels.

To reinforce our team in Vienna, we are seeking a Senior FullStack Web Developer (f/m/x).
